The Coca-Cola Company (NYSE: KO), together with its bottlers in Latin America, announced today the closing of the acquisition of Unilever's (LN:ULVR) AdeS[®] plant-based beverage business. The Coca-Cola Company is now the sole owner of the AdeS[®] brand.

On December 27, 2016, Coca-Cola Andina confirmed to The Coca-Cola Company its decision to participate in the AdeS business, and thus commercialize such products in all of its franchise territories. Coca-Cola Andina pledged to invest approximately US$42 million.

Bottlers participating in the transaction are as follows: Coca-Cola FEMSA, Arca Continental, Embotelladora Andina, Embonor, Corporacion Del Fuerte, Corporacion Rica, Bepensa, Embotelladora del Nayar, Embotelladora de Colima, Solar, Brasal, Bandeirantes, Sorocaba, Simoes, Uberlandia, CVI, Lee, and Monresa. Jugos del Valle S.A.P.I. de C.V., our joint venture with bottling partners in Mexico, also participated in the transaction.

Founded in 1988 in Argentina, AdeS[®] is the leading soy-based beverage brand in Latin America. As the first major brand launched in the category, AdeS[®] pioneered the development of the second largest global market for soy-based beverages. The AdeS[®] brand currently has a presence in Brazil, Mexico, Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay, Bolivia, Chile, and Colombia.

"We are excited to add AdeS[®] to our expanding beverage portfolio in Latin America as it enables us to increase the number of nutritious and delicious products offered to our consumers. AdeS[®] is a leading brand in the plant-based beverage category, which is growing rapidly and is of great interest to our customers and consumers across the markets that we serve." said Alfredo Rivera, President, Latin America Group, The Coca-Cola Company.

"Together with The Coca-Cola Company we are pleased to announce the incorporation of AdeS[®] to our portfolio, in our franchise territories." This is a vegetable protein based beverage, which opens up new opportunities for portfolio development. The incorporation of this type of product is in line with our strategy to serve our consumers in the wide-ranging and growing portfolio of ready-to-drink beverages that will begin developing around the world. We are confident that we will successfully incorporate this new product to our portfolio, leveraging on our extensive distribution network, which reaches more than 52 million consumers in the four countries in which we operate, a market which we service through more than 259 thousand customers." said Miguel Ángel Peirano, Coca-Cola Andina's Chief Executive Officer.

AdeS[®] will become part of the expanding beverage platforms of the Coca-Cola System in Latin America. Over the last few years, the Coca-Cola System has increased its presence in Latin America in juice/dairy/plant-based category cluster, as evident by the acquisition of key brands such as Jugos del Valle (multiple Latin America markets), Santa Clara (Mexico), Tonicorp (Ecuador), Estrella Azul (Panamá), and Verde Campo (Brazil), among others.
